

1923 US PASSPORT

This prop is an authentic replica of a US Passport from the early 1920s.

The real 1923 US passport was a large-format sheet that folded out of a simple cardboard cover. A file for making a replica of the large format passport is part of this HPLHS role-playing prop collection.

However, assuming that most people don't have a printer that can handle 18 x 12 inch paper, this file is for creating the authentic look using regular 8.5 x 11 inch paper.

Print odd pages on ordinary white paper.

Print even page on reverse of odd pages.

Trim off any white margins your printer leaves behind.

Glue left edge of photograph page to right edge of Visa page, as shown below.

Enter all required information by hand. Glue b/w photo of bearer into indicated box, and also staple it along right edge of picture. For added authenticity, use metal eyelets instead of staples. Stamp or glue in appropriate visas.

Attach to passport cover following instructions in that file.

A NOTE ABOUT PASSPORTS

Passports from different countries traditionally came in different styles, but after the first World War the League of Nations held a number of conferences in an attempt to standardize international transit and commerce. In the early/mid 'Twenties, a committee of the League of Nations recommended that all countries adopt a standard booklet-style passport, which was already common in some places. Although it usually ignored advice from the League, the U.S. gradually converted to the booklet style, and the US passport went through a couple of design changes in the time of Lovecraft. Hence, there are three styles of US passport in the HPLHS prop collection.

This fold-out, pre-League of Nations style is most appropriate for games set up to about 1926. The hardback booklet style is for games set in the late 1920s and early '30s, and the softback booklet style is for games set in the later 1930s - '60s.
