

Warforged

The Chronicle

A New Subrace for Warforged

by Cameron Day

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS, D&D, Wizards of the Coast, Forgotten Realms, the dragon ampersand, Player's Handbook, Monster Manual, Dungeon Master's Guide, D&D Adventurers League, all other Wizards of the Coast product names, and their respective logos are trademarks of Wizards of the Coast in the USA and other countries. All characters and their distinctive likenesses are property of Wizards of the Coast. This material is protected under the copyright laws of the United States of America. Any reproduction or unauthorized use of the material or artwork contained herein is prohibited without the express written permission of Wizards of the Coast.

©2020 Daylight Publications and Wizards of the Coast LLC, PO Box 707, Renton, WA 98057-0707, USA. Manufactured by Hasbro SA, Rue Emile-Boéchat 31, 2800 Delémont, CH. Represented by Hasbro Europe, 4 The Square, Stockley Park, Uxbridge, Middlesex, UB11 1ET, UK.

Credits

Writing, Editing, and Layout:

Cameron Day

Arbiter Icon: Cameron Day

Page Background, Divider: DMs
Guild Stock Art

Page Footer: Met Open Liscence
Artwork

Additional Images: Wikimedia
Commons, Textures.com

Warforged! Logo: LordSinclair

Mortal-Warforged Relations

"As far as I'm concerned, 'whom' is a word that was invented to make everyone sound like a butler."
- Calvin Trillin

Warforged of Decorum

From the Records of Ignys Byr,
Leader of the Arbiters:

Chroniclers you can find all over, former battlemages or military strategists turning their knowledge to good working as butlers, archivists, chauffeurs, or educators for families across Sharn. However, beneath this calm and controlled veneer they hide minds faster and more advanced than any other mortal.

Our own Doc was once a Chronicler, a master war engineer and deadly upon the plains with his twin scimitars. While he is calm and collected today; ever motion, every action is measured and calculated. Chroniclers are not to be trifled with.

Wise and Wily

The chroniclers can be found across Khorvair; scholars hired by wealthy families, archivists brought into moldering libraries to try and bring them up from nothing, or military organizations needing a meticulous strategist.

Chroniclers are highly skilled, very often at the heart of large debates, political movements, or trade disagreements. Able to speak numerous languages and universally accepted across Khovaire, the chroniclers are always up to their faceplates in books and history.

Polyglot

Given their immense brain power, chroniclers are gifted with the ability to know multiple languages. As a chronicler, you can read all languages. At first level, pick three additional languages which you can speak. Every third level, select three more languages.

Mind like an Archive

Chroniclers have photographic memories and can often review these memories. Once per day, a chronicler may revisit a memory up to a number of days prior equal to their Intelligence modifier.

This memory can be no shorter than a minute, and no longer than half an hour. They will remember all details perfectly and precisely. They must complete a long rest before using this ability again.

Warforged of Class

Due to their rather worldly and popular status amongst the wealthy of Eberron, chroniclers are naturally welcomed into the homes of the elite and powerful. When making Charisma-based checks against humanoids of upper or elite class, chroniclers have advantage.

Battlecast

Due to their training upon the battlefield, chroniclers are natural battlemages and adept at magic. You are able to have an extra amount of prepared spells equal to your Intelligence modifier.

Additionally, you also gain the cantrips Light, Mage Hand, and Thaumaturgy. Intelligence is your spellcasting ability.

Check Out Our Other Titles

