

GURPS Conversion for the Necromancer's Tomb

Author: Jeff "Venture" Fournier
Editor: Eric Chacon

Overview

This document gives the rules for playing the JAGS Adventure The Necromancer's Tomb (a separate document—if you don't have it, this won't make much sense or be particularly useful) in GURPS® (Steve Jackson Games™ Generic Universal Role Playing System).

It has three sections: Monsters and NPCs, where the creatures referenced in the Necromancer's Tomb are expressed in GURPS statistics, Equipment and Magic, which gives GURPS translations of the magic items and treasure in the adventure, and finally Places and Things which covers traps and other aspects of the Tomb that need to be expressed in GURPS terms.

About The Author

Native of Ohio and an avid artist and game demonstrator for many companies, Jeff's work has appeared in local publications as well as Pyramid Magazine. There's no truth to the rumor that he started the whole head of Vecna thing. However it is true that he once ran a game where the PC's fought and killed the opposition with sporks.

Equipment & Magic

Amulet of Defense: When the wearer is hit a remaining stone takes damage and disappears. When all the stones are gone the magic is used up.

Wizards staff (in 'Belongings chamber'): A standard wizards staff enchanted (cursed) with a trap spell that lets it grapple at 12 STR in a contest of strength with the affected PC. It deals 1d6+1 damage from crushing a round until it is beaten.

Blood Drinker Axe: This weapon drains 1d6-1 HP every round it is in a wound after a Critical success on the attack roll until the victim is dead or the Axe has drunk 10 points of blood. User must make a Will roll to re-sheathe if it has not drunk its fill.

Wizards Staff in Burial Chamber: Staff of fireballs as spell. 3d6 damage 1 time per day.

The leather armor in the Burial Chamber is enchanted to have +1 PD and +1 DR over normal leather armor.

The 6 healing potions heal 8 points per potion drunk.

The Scarab gives a +2 modifier to all poison resistance checks.

The Ruby ring of Fire Resistance halves all damage from fire while worn.

The Magic Sword "Frost Fire": On a critical strike the sword casts Total Paralysis on the target. (Duration 1 min.)

If the GM thinks some of these items would be too unbalancing he may substitute with any items from either GURPS Magic items 1 or 2

Places And Things

Treasure remains pretty much the same as far as coin, gem and jewel worth goes.

Most dangers in the adventure noted as possibly detected/avoided by a sense roll or reflex can be checked as per standard in GURPS with the modifiers given.

Traps in The Necromancer's Tomb follow standard rules

- The Brass ball does lightning damage of 3d6 (and hits on a 15 or less) and is disarmed by a traps roll at a -2 penalty.
- The base chance of tripping unnoticed pressure plates is 1-3 on 1d6.
- All fire based traps do 3d6 flame damage but only hit with a skill of 10.
- All spear traps do 1d6+2 and have a skill of 12.
- Unless they are magical in nature as noted in the adventure all locks are at -4 to pick.

As for the Spiders in the Hall of Pillars, the PC's have a 1-3 on d6 chance to break a trip line. After the first one their chance drops to 1-2 on d6 if they are being careful for every 4 yards they travel. Their chance goes up 1 for every two people in the group.

Unless otherwise noted all traps are at -2 to be detected and -2 to be disarmed when possible.

The Bust trap in the Hall of Pillars which is -6

The gas trap in the entry chamber of the lower level does 2d6 damage but can be avoided on a Dodge. Characters who successfully dodge, however, will fall for 3d6 damage.

To lift the Sarcophagus lid requires a total of 6 successes. To get through the false burial chamber requires three successful Acrobatic rolls. The swords fall from the ceiling and hit with a skill of 13 and do 3d6 damage.

If the PCs fall down the Pit trap in the Hall of Pillars they take 4d6 from the fall and 1d6 impaling damage from the spikes at the bottom of the pit. A DEX check will halve damage and an Acrobatics break fall roll will negate it entirely.

To get through the spear sequence trap after getting golden key 2 the PC in question must make a total of 5 successes on his DEX or suffer the attacks from the spears that round.
