

HIREING

Wintertree Software - www.wintertree.com

1001 Hopeful Hirelings

The adventurers, having paid the town crier to advertise that they were hiring some men-at-arms, look over the collection of would-be hirelings who have come to the inn to seek employment.

GM: Five people have come looking for work in response to your call.

Party leader: Which one is highest level? And has the best loyalty rating? That's the one we want.

GM: Well, that's not so easy to figure out. There's a man who keeps whistling off-key. There's a woman with a limp and a very hostile expression. There's a man who seems to have some sort of ... creature ... that keeps popping in and out of the hood of his cloak. There's another man who, frankly, smells. Worse than usual, that is. And there's a girl who can't be more than 15 half hiding behind the door.

Party leader: So ... interviews?

People, real people, are not collections of stats. There are all sorts of quirks and details that go into making up an individual. What makes a person distinctive is not what color their hair and eyes are, but how they act, what they think, what their motivations are, and so on. Those are the things that can make a difference between an NPC that is just a list of numbers and an NPC who is a part of the adventure, a way for the GM to affect events and exert influence within the flow of the game, rather than just by fiat.

Hirelings of all sorts are so important to the game that even many of the earliest RPG rulebooks had listings of the types available and average pay. As a GM, you know there are all sorts of reasons your players might need hirelings -- they decide they want a local guide, for instance, or they need to hire some guards for those large, awkward items they hauled out of the ogre "king's" lair. As a good GM, you want to have more than just a list of stats; in fact, you know it's more interesting to have two NPCs with identical stats but different personalities than it is to have two with the same (non-existent) personality but different stats.

That's where 1001 Hopeful Hirelings comes in. Here you have a thousand possible hirelings, some good and faithful, some disloyal, some just plain crazy. They're all different, and all interesting. The little details about them, with a moment's thought, can come together to supply a character background. Why does the former poet have a death wish? (given that he's a poet, probably unrequited love) What did the laborer do that he seeks to atone for, and does that have anything to do with his nightmares? These 1001 NPCs are just waiting for you to tell their stories.

This is the perfect list to keep in your GM's notebook (or its computer equivalent, nowadays) and have at hand when you need a would-be hireling. You can roll 3d10 to select one, take the next one off the list, or pick one (or more) that look interesting to you.

They're all looking for work, and the work they want is to make your game more interesting!

These hirelings were created using our program TableMaster, available at your friendly local game store (tell them to inquire about trade discounts), or on the Wintertree Software website if your FLGS absolutely will not special-order it for you. The table that created them is modified from one in Fantasy Table Pack 3.

1001 Hopeful Hirelings

1: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is a picky eater. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a crazy ex. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

2: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, has an itchy skin condition. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

3: This plain-looking man, a former street vendor, always talks in a whisper. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

4: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is keen-sighted. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

5: This shabby-looking man, a former cook, keeps dropping things. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

6: This overdressed woman, a former gongfarmer, is keen-sighted. She is a boor. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

7: This overdressed man, a former teamster, is bad at fighting. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

8: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, has terrible nightmares. He is fatter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

9: This shabby-looking woman, a former apprentice barber, is a sociopath. She is a glutton. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks vengeance for punishment for a crime she did not commit. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

10: This plain-looking woman, a former farmer, is slightly incompetent at everything. She is an insomniac. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty is about average.

11: This shabby-looking man, a former poet, is exceptionally clumsy. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.

12: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is absent-minded. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a crazy ex. His loyalty is about average.

13: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is exceptionally clumsy. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a family member's death. His loyalty is about average.

14: This grubby-looking man, a former sewer cleaner, is a sociopath. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a family member's death. His loyalty is about average.

15: This well-dressed man, a former messenger, is a coward. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

16: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is very stupid. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

17: This overdressed man, a former messenger, is oblivious to everything around him. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

- 18: This plain-looking man, a former writer, skimps on equipment upkeep. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.
- 19: This plain-looking man, a former stonemason, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 20: This grubby-looking man, a former messenger, is oblivious to everything around him. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a past injury. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 21: This well-dressed man, a former miner, is colorblind. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.
- 22: This well-dressed man, a former miner, has an invisible pet. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 23: This well-dressed woman, a former city guard, keeps dropping things. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. She will be fanatically loyal.
- 24: This shabby-looking man, a former writer, has terrible nightmares. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty is about average.
- 25: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, never gives up. She tells jokes that never make any sense. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 26: This plain-looking woman, a former gongfarmer, constantly talks about her collection of odd-shaped rocks. She constantly interrupts conversations. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. Her loyalty is about average.
- 27: This plain-looking man, a former actor, is a kleptomaniac. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty is about average.
- 28: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, is superstitious. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 29: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is easily discouraged. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 30: This plain-looking man, a former scribe, is oblivious to everything around him. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.
- 31: This well-dressed woman, a former executioner, has a high pain threshold. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she is downright crazy. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.
- 32: This plain-looking woman, a former rat catcher, is a picky eater. She talks in her sleep. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. Her loyalty is about average.
- 33: This well-dressed man, a former blacksmith, has asthma. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty is about average.
- 34: This plain-looking man, a former messenger, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 35: This shabby-looking man, a former shepherd, falls asleep on watch. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from bad memories. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

- 36: This shabby-looking man, a former street vendor, is superstitious. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.
- 37: This shabby-looking man, a former porter, is a kleptomaniac. He corrects everything other people say. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 38: This plain-looking man, a former footman, is bad at fighting. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for punishment for a crime he did not commit. His loyalty is about average.
- 39: This grubby-looking man, a former footman, has a low pain threshold. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.
- 40: This well-dressed woman, a former beggar, trusts everyone completely. She is an insomniac. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.
- 41: This shabby-looking woman, a former circus performer, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she loves the thrill of adventuring. She will be fanatically loyal.
- 42: This shabby-looking woman, a former madam, falls asleep on watch. She considers herself equal or superior to her employers. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. Her loyalty is about average.
- 43: This plain-looking woman, a former stonemason, is foolhardy. She is a glutton. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a madhouse. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.
- 44: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, has a low pain threshold. He is afraid of non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.
- 45: This plain-looking woman, a former juggler, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. She is always singing and humming off key. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 46: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, moves slowly. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.
- 47: This plain-looking man, a former street sweeper, is absent-minded. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 48: This overdressed woman, a former housewife, is exceptionally clumsy. She is constantly telling bad jokes. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 49: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 50: This shabby-looking woman, a former city guard, is physically weak. She is a drunkard. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 51: This well-dressed man, a former teacher, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.
- 52: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, is exceptionally clumsy. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.
- 53: This well-dressed man, a former carpenter, keeps dropping things. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

54: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is easily discouraged. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

55: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, has terrible nightmares. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

56: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, falls asleep on watch. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

57: This plain-looking woman, a former prostitute, is a kleptomaniac. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

58: This plain-looking man, a former writer, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

59: This well-dressed man, a former minstrel, has a low pain threshold. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.

60: This shabby-looking man, a former sailor, is very stupid. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

61: This well-dressed man, a former minstrel, is colorblind. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

62: This plain-looking man, a former shepherd, is exceptionally strong. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty is about average.

63: This plain-looking woman, a former sewer cleaner, has an itchy skin condition. She is shorter than average. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

64: This overdressed man, a former laborer, is accident prone. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

65: This overdressed man, a former laborer, is foolhardy. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

66: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice tailor, has a wooden leg. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.

67: This plain-looking man, a former street vendor, limps. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be fanatically loyal.

68: This plain-looking man, a former scholar, is slightly incompetent at everything. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

69: This well-dressed man, a former gongfarmer, is accident prone. He is afraid of non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be fanatically loyal.

70: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, skimps on equipment upkeep. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for ancient coins for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

71: This shabby-looking woman, a former stonemason, is a kleptomaniac. She is nervous. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. Her loyalty is about average.

72: This plain-looking man, a former poet, is accident prone. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

73: This plain-looking man, a former scribe, always feels too hot. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

74: This shabby-looking man, a former poet, has asthma. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

75: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, is good at fighting. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

76: This well-dressed man, a former bureaucrat, has a low pain threshold. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

77: This plain-looking man, a former lamplighter, has a high pain threshold. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

78: This shabby-looking man, a former tinker, has a high pain threshold. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

79: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, limps. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

80: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, constantly talks about his collection of teeth. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.

81: This well-dressed man, a former circus performer, is a sociopath. He is fatter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

82: This shabby-looking man, a former writer, is blind in one eye. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

83: This plain-looking woman, a former messenger, has asthma. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. She will be fanatically loyal.

84: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, constantly talks about his collection of teeth. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

85: This plain-looking man, a former beggar, is easily confused. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

86: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, can't add, or even count. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty is about average.

87: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is a kleptomaniac. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

88: This grubby-looking man, a former laborer, is accident prone. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for monster skulls for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

89: This plain-looking man, a former actor, never gives up. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

90: This shabby-looking woman, a former scholar, limps. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. Her loyalty is about average.

91: This shabby-looking man, a former teacher, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

92: This plain-looking woman, a former actress, is absent-minded. She never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a prison. She will be fanatically loyal.

- 93: This plain-looking man, a former actor, is superstitious. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 94: This shabby-looking woman, a former madam, takes meticulous care of her equipment. She tells jokes that never make any sense. She wants to join the adventurers because she is under a geas. She will be fanatically loyal.
- 95: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, has no sense of direction. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.
- 96: This plain-looking man, a former clergyman, is a picky eater. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 97: This shabby-looking woman, a former clergywoman, has an invisible pet (it's real). She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks redemption for a past failure. She will be fanatically loyal.
- 98: This plain-looking man, a former writer, is absent-minded. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 99: This overdressed man, a former farmer, constantly talks about his collection of finger bones. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from an arranged marriage. He will be fanatically loyal.
- 100: This plain-looking man, a former bartender, is absent-minded. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a crime committed against him. His loyalty is about average.
- 101: This well-dressed man, a former sailor, trusts everyone completely. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 102: This plain-looking man, a former blacksmith, never gives up. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.
- 103: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, always talks in a shout. He is afraid of non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.
- 104: This well-dressed man, a former blacksmith, has a photographic memory. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 105: This well-dressed woman, a former soldier, is easily discouraged. She talks in her sleep. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. Her loyalty is about average.
- 106: This shabby-looking man, a former miner, is blind in one eye. He dislikes non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.
- 107: This grubby-looking man, a former farmer, is a coward. He dislikes non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.
- 108: This grubby-looking woman, a former circus performer, is a kleptomaniac. She is taller than average. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks vengeance for a crime committed against her. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 109: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, is slightly incompetent at everything. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 110: This plain-looking man, a former footman, never gives up. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.
- 111: This plain-looking man, a former rat catcher, never gives up. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.
- 112: This well-dressed man, a former porter, constantly talks about his collection of shiny pebbles. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

113: This grubby-looking woman, a former farmer, has a high pain threshold. She is always angry. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. Her loyalty is about average.

114: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a friend's death. His loyalty is about average.

115: This plain-looking man, a former miner, is keen-sighted. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

116: This shabby-looking man, a former cook, is a picky eater. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

117: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, has a photographic memory. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

118: This shabby-looking man, a former sailor, will not be parted from some object. He is shorter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be fanatically loyal.

119: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, never gives up. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for monster skulls for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

120: This plain-looking man, a former sailor, is a coward. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

121: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, can't add, or even count. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

122: This plain-looking man, a former footman, has a bad back. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

123: This grubby-looking woman, a former gongfarmer, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she is downright crazy. Her loyalty is about average.

124: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, keeps dropping things. He is constantly picking at his skin. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

125: This well-dressed man, a former teamster, is physically weak. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a past injury. His loyalty is about average.

126: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is allergic to pollen. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

127: This plain-looking man, a former executioner, constantly talks about his collection of teeth. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

128: This plain-looking woman, a former stonemason, is accident prone. She argues about every order. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to earn money to marry. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

129: This plain-looking woman, a former scribe, is a coward. She constantly interrupts conversations. She wants to join the adventurers because she is doing 'research'. Her loyalty is about average.

130: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is a picky eater. He is taller than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

131: This shabby-looking woman, a former beggar, has a low pain threshold. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

132: This shabby-looking woman, a former shepherd, is oblivious to everything around her. She is a hedonist. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks redemption for a past failure. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

133: This plain-looking man, a former tinker, is a coward. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty is about average.

134: This plain-looking woman, a former writer, is bad at fighting. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to get rich. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

135: This well-dressed man, a former juggler, constantly talks about his collection of buttons. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

136: This overdressed man, a former farmer, is bad at fighting. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

137: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is allergic to onions. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

138: This grubby-looking man, a former executioner, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

139: This shabby-looking man, a former stonemason, is very stupid. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

140: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, really, really likes fire. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

141: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is extremely nearsighted. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for butterflies for his collection. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

142: This shabby-looking woman, a former clergywoman, always talks in a whisper. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a prison. She will be fanatically loyal.

143: This grubby-looking man, a former scribe, is very stupid. He is fatter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

144: This plain-looking man, a former juggler, has an itchy skin condition. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be fanatically loyal.

145: This plain-looking man, a former porter, always talks in a whisper. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

146: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, is very smart. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

147: This well-dressed man, a former teamster, has no sense of direction. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

148: This plain-looking woman, a former baker, is extremely nearsighted. She corrects everything other people say. She wants to join the adventurers because she is under a geas. Her loyalty is about average.

149: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is a sociopath. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

150: This overdressed man, a former ragpicker, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

151: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice butcher, can't add, or even count. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

152: This overdressed man, a former bartender, has no sense of direction. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be fanatically loyal.

153: This plain-looking woman, a former clergywoman, is allergic to cats. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a prison. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

154: This well-dressed man, a former minstrel, is very stupid. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be fanatically loyal.

155: This plain-looking man, a former sailor, is oblivious to everything around him. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

156: This shabby-looking man, a former tinker, is very smart. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.

157: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, has asthma. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

158: This plain-looking man, a former messenger, is exceptionally strong. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

159: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, is exceptionally strong. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. He will be fanatically loyal.

160: This grubby-looking woman, a former apprentice barber, is very stupid. She is nervous. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to earn money to marry. Her loyalty is about average.

161: This plain-looking man, a former messenger, constantly talks about his collection of teeth. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be fanatically loyal.

162: This plain-looking man, a former blacksmith, has a pet. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

163: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is absent-minded. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

164: This plain-looking man, a former porter, has a photographic memory. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

165: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

166: This plain-looking woman, a former madam, is good at fighting. She dislikes non-humans. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

167: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is very smart. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.

168: This plain-looking man, a former porter, limps. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

169: This plain-looking man, a former street sweeper, has a high pain threshold. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be fanatically loyal.

170: This overdressed woman, a former executioner, has a low pain threshold. She is a boor. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

171: This plain-looking man, a former miner, is easily confused. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for punishment for a crime he did not commit. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

172: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice woodcutter, is a picky eater. She cannot cook, but insists on trying. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks redemption for a past failure. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

173: This plain-looking woman, a former housewife, is oblivious to everything around her. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty is about average.

174: This well-dressed man, a former writer, is very stupid. He corrects everything other people say. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

175: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice gravedigger, can't add, or even count. She is an insomniac. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

176: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is a coward. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

177: This plain-looking man, a former miner, has an invisible pet. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

178: This plain-looking man, a former footman, is suspicious of everyone. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from disgrace. His loyalty is about average.

179: This shabby-looking woman, a former shepherd, never gives up. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a head filled with tales of derring-do. Her loyalty is about average.

180: This plain-looking man, a former scribe, is very stupid. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. He will be fanatically loyal.

181: This plain-looking man, a former circus performer, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be fanatically loyal.

182: This shabby-looking woman, a former executioner, is allergic to dogs. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

183: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, is slightly incompetent at everything. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

184: This shabby-looking man, a former sailor, constantly talks about his collection of pieces of string. He is afraid of non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will be fanatically loyal.

185: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is slightly incompetent at everything. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a crime committed against him. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

186: This shabby-looking man, a former sailor, skimps on equipment upkeep. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty is about average.

187: This plain-looking woman, a former teamster, constantly talks about her collection of pieces of string. She always sits with her back to a wall. She wants to join the adventurers because she is downright crazy. Her loyalty is about average.

188: This grubby-looking man, a former farmer, is a sociopath. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

189: This shabby-looking woman, a former ragpicker, constantly talks about her collection of pieces of string. She constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never herself). She wants to join the adventurers because she has daddy issues. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

190: This plain-looking woman, a former sewer cleaner, is very stupid. She considers herself equal or superior to her employers. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

191: This well-dressed man, a former messenger, is absent-minded. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a false accusation. His loyalty is about average.

192: This plain-looking man, a former teacher, is absent-minded. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

193: This plain-looking man, a former miner, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

194: This well-dressed man, a former porter, has a photographic memory. He is a glutton. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

195: This plain-looking woman, a former street vendor, is physically weak. She is an insomniac. She wants to join the adventurers because she is following her family custom. Her loyalty is about average.

196: This grubby-looking man, a former stonemason, is keen-sighted. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

197: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, is accident prone. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. She will be fanatically loyal.

198: This grubby-looking man, a former miner, is accident prone. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be fanatically loyal.

199: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice clerk, is physically weak. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

200: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, collects shiny pebbles. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

201: This plain-looking man, a former clergyman, has asthma. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

202: This well-dressed man, a former carpenter, has asthma. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be fanatically loyal.

203: This shabby-looking woman, a former writer, falls asleep on watch. She is constantly in a hurry. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a madhouse. Her loyalty is about average.

204: This plain-looking man, a former shepherd, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is fatter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

205: This plain-looking man, a former bartender, has a low pain threshold. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be fanatically loyal.

206: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, really, really likes fire. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.

207: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is a picky eater. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from bad memories. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

208: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, moves slowly. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

209: This plain-looking man, a former bureaucrat, always feels too hot. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for artifacts from an ancient kingdom for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

210: This plain-looking woman, a former ragpicker, is easily confused. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she is doing 'research'. She will be fanatically loyal.

211: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, has a bad back. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

212: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice tanner, trusts everyone completely. She is always singing and humming off key. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

213: This plain-looking man, a former carpenter, really, really likes fire. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

214: This plain-looking man, a former blacksmith, collects shiny pebbles. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

215: This plain-looking man, a former miner, has a wooden leg. He is a boor. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

216: This plain-looking man, a former miner, constantly talks about his collection of pieces of string. He is thinner than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for ancient coins for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

217: This plain-looking woman, a former beggar, never gives up. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she is fleeing from an arranged marriage. Her loyalty is about average.

218: This plain-looking man, a former footman, trusts everyone completely. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be fanatically loyal.

219: This plain-looking man, a former lamplighter, is exceptionally clumsy. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

220: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is blind in one eye. He is a boor. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

221: This well-dressed woman, a former circus performer, is a sociopath. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she loves the thrill of adventuring. She will be fanatically loyal.

222: This shabby-looking man, a former baker, has a low pain threshold. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.

223: This well-dressed man, a former apprentice miller, falls asleep on watch. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from a moneylender. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

224: This shabby-looking man, a former clergyman, has a pet. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a past injury. His loyalty is about average.

225: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, has an itchy skin condition. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a crime committed against him. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

226: This well-dressed man, a former carpenter, is extremely nearsighted. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

227: This well-dressed man, a former executioner, has no sense of direction. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

228: This shabby-looking man, a former porter, has a bad back. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be fanatically loyal.

229: This well-dressed man, a former scribe, always talks in a whisper. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

230: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, keeps dropping things. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

231: This plain-looking man, a former scholar, is superstitious. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

232: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, collects finger bones. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

233: This plain-looking man, a former blacksmith, is suspicious of everyone. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

234: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is easily discouraged. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

235: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty is about average.

236: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice saddle maker, is a coward. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty is about average.

237: This shabby-looking man, a former city guard, is good at fighting. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be fanatically loyal.

238: This shabby-looking woman, a former apprentice carpenter, has no sense of direction. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to travel far away from here. Her loyalty is about average.

239: This overdressed man, a former shepherd, is blind in one eye. He argues about every order. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

240: This overdressed man, a former beggar, has a photographic memory. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

241: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, is bad at fighting. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

242: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice weaver, is keen-sighted. She is constantly telling bad jokes. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

243: This shabby-looking man, a former artist, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

244: This plain-looking man, a former scholar, has a pet. He is obese. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty is about average.

245: This plain-looking man, a former porter, collects odd-shaped rocks. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

246: This grubby-looking man, a former porter, has a low pain threshold. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. His loyalty is about average.

247: This plain-looking man, a former scribe, collects finger bones. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

248: This well-dressed man, a former sewer cleaner, has a photographic memory. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty is about average.

249: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is bad at fighting. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from an arranged marriage. He will be fanatically loyal.

250: This well-dressed woman, a former petty criminal, is absent-minded. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

251: This plain-looking woman, a former city guard, is exceptionally clumsy. She is obsessed with bathing. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty is about average.

252: This shabby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is accident prone. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty is about average.

253: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is overconfident. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

254: This plain-looking man, a former street vendor, always feels too hot. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

255: This shabby-looking man, a former teamster, always talks in a shout. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

256: This well-dressed man, a former porter, trusts everyone completely. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.

257: This shabby-looking man, a former teamster, is exceptionally strong. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

258: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, limps. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

259: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, can't add, or even count. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

260: This grubby-looking man, a former executioner, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

261: This shabby-looking woman, a former sewer cleaner, limps. She is very religious. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. Her loyalty is about average.

262: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, has a photographic memory. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

263: This shabby-looking man, a former teamster, is a kleptomaniac. He argues about every order. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

264: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice butcher, really, really likes fire. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

265: This plain-looking man, a former clergyman, is a sociopath. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

266: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, really, really likes fire. He argues about every order. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

267: This shabby-looking man, a former lamplighter, has a wooden leg. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

268: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, has a wooden leg. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

269: This plain-looking woman, a former scribe, takes meticulous care of her equipment. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. She will be fanatically loyal.

270: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, has terrible nightmares. He is fatter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

271: This plain-looking man, a former miner, is a kleptomaniac. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

272: This plain-looking man, a former stonemason, has a bad back. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

273: This plain-looking woman, a former ragpicker, falls asleep on watch. She tells jokes that never make any sense. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. Her loyalty is about average.

274: This well-dressed man, a former poet, has terrible nightmares. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

275: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, constantly talks about his collection of animal teeth. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

276: This plain-looking woman, a former lamplighter, is foolhardy. She argues about every order. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. Her loyalty is about average.

277: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, always feels too cold. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

278: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is easily confused. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for old documents for his collection. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

279: This shabby-looking man, a former actor, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is shorter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

280: This plain-looking man, a former porter, is exceptionally strong. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a crazy ex. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

281: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, has a wooden leg. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will be fanatically loyal.

282: This well-dressed man, a former teacher, skimps on equipment upkeep. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

283: This well-dressed man, a former bureaucrat, trusts everyone completely. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

284: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is exceptionally clumsy. He whines about everything. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty is about average.

285: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is blind in one eye. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

286: This shabby-looking man, a former juggler, limps. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

287: This plain-looking man, a former juggler, is oblivious to everything around him. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

288: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, has an invisible pet. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

289: This well-dressed man, a former street sweeper, is a picky eater. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

290: This shabby-looking man, a former messenger, has an invisible pet. He is skeletally thin. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

291: This plain-looking man, a former writer, has a bad back. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

292: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, really, really likes fire. She whines about everything. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks vengeance for a past injury. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

293: This plain-looking man, a former writer, never gives up. He is a glutton. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. He will be fanatically loyal.

294: This grubby-looking man, a former actor, never gives up. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

295: This well-dressed man, a former petty criminal, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be fanatically loyal.

296: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is absent-minded. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty is about average.

297: This shabby-looking woman, a former petty criminal, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. She considers herself equal or superior to her employers. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

298: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, will not be parted from some object. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

299: This overdressed woman, a former minstrel, is colorblind. She always sits with her back to a wall. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks redemption for a past failure. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

300: This shabby-looking man, a former writer, is very smart. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

301: This plain-looking man, a former teacher, never gives up. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty is about average.

302: This shabby-looking man, a former ragpicker, is physically weak. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for punishment for a crime he did not commit. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

303: This plain-looking man, a former clergyman, keeps dropping things. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

304: This overdressed man, a former laborer, has a low pain threshold. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from the law. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

305: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, falls asleep on watch. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

306: This well-dressed man, a former gravedigger, has terrible nightmares. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

307: This well-dressed man, a former messenger, has a photographic memory. He dislikes non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

308: This shabby-looking man, a former teamster, is superstitious. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

309: This plain-looking man, a former scribe, has a high pain threshold. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

310: This plain-looking man, a former cook, is suspicious of everyone. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

311: This plain-looking man, a former writer, has a high pain threshold. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

312: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice cheesemaker, is exceptionally strong. She argues about every order. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

313: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, keeps dropping things. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be fanatically loyal.

314: This plain-looking woman, a former circus performer, keeps dropping things. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. She will be fanatically loyal.

315: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, has a photographic memory. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

316: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is a picky eater. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

317: This grubby-looking man, a former petty criminal, is a coward. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be fanatically loyal.

318: This plain-looking man, a former scholar, always talks in a shout. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

319: This well-dressed man, a former petty criminal, is extremely nearsighted. He is shorter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

320: This shabby-looking man, a former street vendor, has a wooden leg. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

321: This shabby-looking man, a former poet, is blind in one eye. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

322: This shabby-looking man, a former tinker, can't add, or even count. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

323: This plain-looking woman, a former street vendor, limps. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

324: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, constantly talks about his collection of shiny pebbles. He is afraid of non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

325: This shabby-looking woman, a former shepherd, has a wooden leg. She corrects everything other people say. She wants to join the adventurers because she loves the thrill of adventuring. Her loyalty is about average.

326: This shabby-looking man, a former circus performer, has a wooden leg. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

327: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is blind in one eye. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

328: This plain-looking man, a former baker, is keen-sighted. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a friend's death. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

329: This well-dressed man, a former actor, has asthma. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

330: This grubby-looking woman, a former executioner, is very stupid. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

331: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, constantly talks about his collection of odd-shaped rocks. He corrects everything other people say (and is usually wrong). He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

332: This plain-looking woman, a former beggar, has a wooden leg. She is very religious. She wants to join the adventurers because she is looking for rare bugs for her collection. Her loyalty is about average.

333: This plain-looking man, a former executioner, is a coward. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

334: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice scribe, is a kleptomaniac. She is constantly picking at his skin. She wants to join the adventurers because she has daddy issues. She will be fanatically loyal.

335: This plain-looking man, a former miner, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be fanatically loyal.

336: This plain-looking man, a former writer, is absent-minded. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

337: This grubby-looking man, a former shepherd, has a low pain threshold. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

338: This well-dressed man, a former rat catcher, is easily confused. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

339: This shabby-looking man, a former city guard, is blind in one eye. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will be fanatically loyal.

340: This grubby-looking man, a former apprentice cheesemaker, is oblivious to everything around him. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty is about average.

341: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice cooper, is accident prone. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for monster skulls for his collection. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

342: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice cheesemaker, is oblivious to everything around him. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

343: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice carpenter, has a pet. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

344: This plain-looking woman, a former prostitute, collects odd-shaped rocks. She argues about every order. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

345: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, has a pet. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be fanatically loyal.

346: This plain-looking woman, a former rat catcher, never gives up. She is a glutton. She wants to join the adventurers because she is following her family custom. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

347: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice store clerk, really, really likes fire. She is obsessed with bathing. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty is about average.

348: This plain-looking man, a former porter, moves slowly. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

349: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice cook, is easily confused. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

350: This plain-looking man, a former teacher, is extremely nearsighted. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

351: This well-dressed man, a former porter, is oblivious to everything around him. He argues about every order. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty is about average.

352: This plain-looking man, a former clergyman, collects teeth. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

353: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, is exceptionally clumsy. He corrects everything other people say. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty is about average.

354: This well-dressed man, a former beggar, is easily confused. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty is about average.

355: This well-dressed man, a former gongfarmer, is a coward. He whines about everything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

356: This plain-looking man, a former rat catcher, is a picky eater. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

357: This shabby-looking man, a former clergyman, has an invisible pet (it's real). He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

358: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, always feels too cold. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

359: This plain-looking man, a former bureaucrat, is a sociopath. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

360: This plain-looking man, a former artist, is a kleptomaniac. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

361: This plain-looking man, a former porter, is accident prone. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

362: This shabby-looking man, a former bartender, has no sense of direction. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty is about average.

363: This well-dressed man, a former juggler, keeps dropping things. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

364: This plain-looking man, a former stonemason, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He dislikes non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

365: This plain-looking man, a former stonemason, can't add, or even count. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. He will be fanatically loyal.

366: This plain-looking woman, a former gongfarmer, is superstitious. She is a boor. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. Her loyalty is about average.

367: This grubby-looking woman, a former prostitute, has an invisible pet. She is nervous. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. Her loyalty is about average.

368: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is bad at fighting. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

369: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice shipbuilder, limps. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

370: This well-dressed man, a former minstrel, is foolhardy. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

371: This well-dressed man, a former scholar, is accident prone. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from the law. His loyalty is about average.

372: This grubby-looking man, a former soldier, has a pet. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

373: This shabby-looking man, a former minstrel, is superstitious. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

374: This plain-looking woman, a former circus performer, takes meticulous care of her equipment. She is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

375: This shabby-looking woman, a former artist, is superstitious. She cannot cook, but insists on trying. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

376: This well-dressed man, a former sailor, has an invisible pet. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

377: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is easily discouraged. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

378: This well-dressed man, a former stonemason, is a coward. He is overconfident. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

379: This grubby-looking woman, a former petty criminal, can't add, or even count. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she is under a geas. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

380: This grubby-looking man, a former apprentice shoemaker, has a wooden leg. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be fanatically loyal.

381: This plain-looking man, a former circus performer, is accident prone. He dislikes non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

382: This well-dressed woman, a former porter, is exceptionally clumsy. She constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never herself). She wants to join the adventurers because she is downright crazy. Her loyalty is about average.

383: This well-dressed man, a former porter, is extremely nearsighted. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from the law. His loyalty is about average.

384: This overdressed woman, a former poet, has a pet. She is constantly telling bad jokes. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. Her loyalty is about average.

385: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

386: This overdressed man, a former sailor, is exceptionally clumsy. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

387: This plain-looking man, a former rat catcher, has asthma. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

388: This overdressed man, a former artist, is easily discouraged. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

389: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, has an invisible pet. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

390: This well-dressed man, a former miner, has asthma. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. He will be fanatically loyal.

391: This well-dressed man, a former lamplighter, is colorblind. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

392: This well-dressed man, a former petty criminal, is oblivious to everything around him. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

393: This well-dressed man, a former porter, is exceptionally clumsy. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

394: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is easily discouraged. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty is about average.

395: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice miller, is easily confused. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be fanatically loyal.

396: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, is suspicious of everyone. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

397: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is keen-sighted. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

398: This overdressed woman, a former teamster, is exceptionally clumsy. She corrects everything other people say. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. Her loyalty is about average.

399: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, is slightly incompetent at everything. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

400: This overdressed man, a former scholar, is very stupid. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

401: This overdressed man, a former actor, is foolhardy. He whines about everything. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

402: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

403: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, is superstitious. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

404: This well-dressed man, a former footman, is slightly incompetent at everything. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

405: This shabby-looking man, a former circus performer, is accident prone. He is fatter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

406: This plain-looking woman, a former city guard, has a wooden leg. She is very tall. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. She will be fanatically loyal.

407: This plain-looking woman, a former juggler, is keen-sighted. She is taller than average. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

408: This plain-looking man, a former rat catcher, is oblivious to everything around him. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

409: This well-dressed man, a former ragpicker, has asthma. He is a glutton. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

410: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is superstitious. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

411: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, is bad at fighting. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

412: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice archivist, is exceptionally clumsy. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

413: This plain-looking man, a former poet, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for old documents for his collection. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

414: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, can't add, or even count. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for ancient coins for his collection. He will be fanatically loyal.

415: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, skimps on equipment upkeep. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

416: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, really, really likes fire. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

417: This overdressed man, a former gravedigger, is slightly incompetent at everything. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

418: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, will not be parted from some object. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will be fanatically loyal.

419: This well-dressed man, a former apprentice carpenter, is extremely nearsighted. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

420: This well-dressed man, a former cook, is a coward. He is a glutton. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

421: This plain-looking man, a former miner, is good at fighting. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. His loyalty is about average.

422: This shabby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

423: This plain-looking man, a former tinker, is colorblind. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

424: This well-dressed man, a former teacher, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

425: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He corrects everything other people say (and is usually wrong). He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

426: This well-dressed woman, a former housekeeper, has asthma. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she is greedy. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

427: This plain-looking man, a former artist, is a coward. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

428: This plain-looking man, a former porter, always feels too hot. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for monster skulls for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

429: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is bad at fighting. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.

430: This plain-looking man, a former sailor, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

431: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, really, really likes fire. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

432: This plain-looking woman, a former gongfarmer, is oblivious to everything around her. She is always singing and humming off key. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a head filled with tales of derring-do. She will be fanatically loyal.

433: This well-dressed man, a former street sweeper, moves slowly. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty is about average.

434: This well-dressed woman, a former cook, limps. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to travel far away from here. Her loyalty is about average.

435: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, has a pet. He is thinner than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

436: This plain-looking man, a former circus performer, constantly talks about his collection of odd-shaped rocks. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

437: This plain-looking man, a former baker, is easily discouraged. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

438: This plain-looking man, a former miner, will not be parted from some object. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be fanatically loyal.

439: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is good at fighting. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

440: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice barber, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. She talks in her sleep. She wants to join the adventurers because she is on the run from the law. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

441: This shabby-looking woman, a former beggar, is exceptionally strong. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

442: This shabby-looking man, a former baker, is absent-minded. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

443: This well-dressed woman, a former housekeeper, can't add, or even count. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

444: This plain-looking man, a former porter, trusts everyone completely. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for old documents for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

445: This shabby-looking man, a former gravedigger, keeps dropping things. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be fanatically loyal.

446: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice blacksmith, always talks in a whisper. She is constantly in a hurry. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

447: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, has an invisible pet. He whines about everything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be fanatically loyal.

448: This plain-looking woman, a former ragpicker, is oblivious to everything around her. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she is fleeing from from bad memories. Her loyalty is about average.

449: This shabby-looking man, a former stonemason, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

450: This shabby-looking man, a former minstrel, is exceptionally strong. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be fanatically loyal.

451: This overdressed woman, a former minstrel, has a photographic memory. She argues about every order. She wants to join the adventurers because she is following her family custom. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

452: This grubby-looking man, a former sailor, is accident prone. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

453: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, always feels too cold. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

454: This shabby-looking man, a former stonemason, is absent-minded. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

455: This shabby-looking woman, a former beggar, has an invisible pet. She is overconfident. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. Her loyalty is about average.

456: This plain-looking man, a former porter, is keen-sighted. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

457: This shabby-looking man, a former rat catcher, is extremely nearsighted. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

458: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is a picky eater. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty is about average.

459: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, moves slowly. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

460: This well-dressed man, a former teamster, has a low pain threshold. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from disgrace. He will be fanatically loyal.

461: This plain-looking man, a former lamplighter, is good at fighting. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

462: This plain-looking woman, a former minstrel, keeps dropping things. She is a glutton. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

463: This plain-looking woman, a former shepherd, is keen-sighted. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she is looking for ancient coins for her collection. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

464: This plain-looking man, a former stonemason, never gives up. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

465: This well-dressed woman, a former gravedigger, is a sociopath. She constantly interrupts conversations. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks redemption for a past failure. Her loyalty is about average.

466: This plain-looking man, a former footman, moves slowly. He whines about everything. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

467: This overdressed man, a former shepherd, trusts everyone completely. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

468: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, is bad at fighting. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

469: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice greengrocer, is absent-minded. She totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a prison. Her loyalty is about average.

470: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, is blind in one eye. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

471: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, constantly talks about his collection of shiny pebbles. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

472: This grubby-looking man, a former executioner, is suspicious of everyone. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

473: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, has a photographic memory. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

474: This overdressed man, a former sewer cleaner, is keen-sighted. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty is about average.

475: This plain-looking woman, a former housewife, is easily confused. She is obsessed with bathing. She wants to join the adventurers because she is on the run from the law. She will be fanatically loyal.

476: This plain-looking man, a former executioner, has a wooden leg. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

477: This well-dressed man, a former ragpicker, keeps dropping things. He is very short. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be fanatically loyal.

478: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, really, really likes fire. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

479: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, trusts everyone completely. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

480: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is slightly incompetent at everything. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.

481: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, has a pet. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

482: This overdressed man, a former executioner, is extremely nearsighted. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

483: This grubby-looking man, a former writer, is easily discouraged. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

484: This grubby-looking man, a former petty criminal, is a sociopath. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

485: This plain-looking woman, a former street sweeper, has asthma. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks redemption for a past failure. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

486: This grubby-looking man, a former tinker, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a family member's death. His loyalty is about average.

487: This well-dressed man, a former gongfarmer, is a picky eater. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

488: This plain-looking woman, a former housewife, is physically weak. She considers herself equal or superior to her employers. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. Her loyalty is about average.

489: This well-dressed man, a former gravedigger, is a sociopath. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be fanatically loyal.

490: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, keeps dropping things. He corrects everything other people say. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

491: This well-dressed woman, a former maid, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a prison. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

492: This plain-looking man, a former actor, has a pet. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

493: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, is a kleptomaniac. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

494: This plain-looking woman, a former rat catcher, is foolhardy. She is always angry. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

495: This overdressed man, a former city guard, is extremely nearsighted. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty is about average.

496: This plain-looking man, a former street vendor, limps. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

497: This grubby-looking man, a former scholar, is keen-sighted. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

498: This well-dressed man, a former cook, is a sociopath. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from bad memories. His loyalty is about average.

499: This plain-looking woman, a former scribe, is foolhardy. She is a boor. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

500: This shabby-looking man, a former tinker, has terrible nightmares. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be fanatically loyal.

501: This well-dressed man, a former gongfarmer, is keen-sighted. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

502: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, falls asleep on watch. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for punishment for a crime he did not commit. His loyalty is about average.

503: This plain-looking man, a former sailor, is suspicious of everyone. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be fanatically loyal.

504: This plain-looking woman, a former baker, is exceptionally clumsy. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

505: This shabby-looking woman, a former writer, is keen-sighted. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. Her loyalty is about average.

506: This shabby-looking woman, a former actress, is blind in one eye. She is a boor. She wants to join the adventurers because she is fleeing from from the law. Her loyalty is about average.

507: This well-dressed man, a former apprentice butcher, never gives up. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

508: This well-dressed man, a former sewer cleaner, keeps dropping things. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for monster skulls for his collection. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

509: This grubby-looking man, a former farmer, keeps dropping things. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

510: This plain-looking man, a former ragpicker, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

511: This overdressed man, a former apprentice weaver, really, really likes fire. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a family member's death. His loyalty is about average.

512: This well-dressed man, a former circus performer, has an invisible pet. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

513: This plain-looking woman, a former farmer, is exceptionally clumsy. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a head filled with tales of derring-do. Her loyalty is about average.

514: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is a picky eater. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

515: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, is oblivious to everything around him. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be fanatically loyal.

516: This shabby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, really, really likes fire. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

517: This plain-looking man, a former sewer cleaner, is keen-sighted. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

518: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is foolhardy. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be fanatically loyal.

519: This plain-looking man, a former baker, is foolhardy. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

520: This plain-looking woman, a former messenger, is easily confused. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. Her loyalty is about average.

521: This plain-looking man, a former writer, is foolhardy. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

522: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice baker, is very smart. He is shorter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

523: This shabby-looking man, a former footman, will not be parted from some object. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

524: This plain-looking woman, a former juggler, is superstitious. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. Her loyalty is about average.

525: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, has a photographic memory. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be fanatically loyal.

526: This well-dressed woman, a former circus performer, is oblivious to everything around her. She is nervous. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

527: This well-dressed man, a former gravedigger, falls asleep on watch. He is skeletally thin. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

528: This well-dressed man, a former apprentice animal trainer, is accident prone. He is skeletally thin. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a crazy ex. His loyalty is about average.

529: This plain-looking woman, a former sewer cleaner, never gives up. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

530: This overdressed man, a former sailor, is accident prone. He is shorter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for monster skulls for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

531: This well-dressed man, a former porter, is suspicious of everyone. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

532: This shabby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, skimps on equipment upkeep. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

533: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice gamekeeper, is colorblind. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

534: This plain-looking man, a former blacksmith, has no sense of direction. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be fanatically loyal.

535: This well-dressed man, a former miner, collects pieces of string. He corrects everything other people say. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

536: This plain-looking man, a former stonemason, is a coward. He is overconfident. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

537: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for ancient coins for his collection. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

538: This overdressed man, a former messenger, really, really likes fire. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

539: This shabby-looking man, a former footman, has an itchy skin condition. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. His loyalty is about average.

540: This well-dressed man, a former clergyman, is exceptionally strong. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

541: This well-dressed man, a former teamster, can't add, or even count. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

542: This plain-looking man, a former street vendor, is good at fighting. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

543: This well-dressed woman, a former laborer, is easily confused. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she has daddy issues. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

544: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, is a kleptomaniac. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

545: This shabby-looking man, a former carpenter, is suspicious of everyone. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

546: This grubby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is absent-minded. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for butterflies for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

547: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, is accident prone. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

548: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is thinner than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for old documents for his collection. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

549: This shabby-looking woman, a former petty criminal, is colorblind. She is very tall. She wants to join the adventurers because she has daddy issues. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

550: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, is keen-sighted. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

551: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, has an invisible pet. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

552: This overdressed man, a former gongfarmer, always feels too hot. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

553: This plain-looking man, a former sewer cleaner, is accident prone. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

554: This well-dressed man, a former street sweeper, falls asleep on watch. He is taller than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

555: This overdressed man, a former sewer cleaner, is superstitious. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

556: This plain-looking woman, a former madam, takes meticulous care of her equipment. She is constantly picking at his skin. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

557: This plain-looking man, a former porter, is a sociopath. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

558: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, can't add, or even count. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

559: This overdressed woman, a former farmer, has terrible nightmares. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a head filled with tales of derring-do. Her loyalty is about average.

560: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is oblivious to everything around him. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

561: This plain-looking man, a former bureaucrat, has an invisible pet. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

562: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, is very stupid. He is thinner than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

563: This plain-looking man, a former writer, keeps dropping things. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a false accusation. His loyalty is about average.

564: This plain-looking woman, a former farmer, has a high pain threshold. She argues about every order. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. Her loyalty is about average.

565: This grubby-looking man, a former apprentice baker, keeps dropping things. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

566: This well-dressed man, a former tinker, falls asleep on watch. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

567: This plain-looking man, a former executioner, is bad at fighting. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

568: This grubby-looking man, a former circus performer, constantly talks about his collection of finger bones. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

569: This plain-looking man, a former porter, limps. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

570: This shabby-looking woman, a former apprentice gravedigger, is easily confused. She is nervous. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to get rich. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

571: This grubby-looking man, a former laborer, is absent-minded. He whines about everything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

572: This grubby-looking man, a former gravedigger, is extremely nearsighted. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty is about average.

573: This plain-looking woman, a former artist, is a coward. She is very religious. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

574: This shabby-looking woman, a former teamster, will not be parted from some object. She is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks redemption for a past failure. She will be fanatically loyal.

575: This grubby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is slightly incompetent at everything. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

576: This shabby-looking man, a former blacksmith, is exceptionally strong. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

577: This well-dressed man, a former circus performer, constantly talks about his collection of teeth. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

578: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, has terrible nightmares. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be fanatically loyal.

579: This shabby-looking man, a former porter, keeps dropping things. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will be fanatically loyal.

580: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, has asthma. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

581: This shabby-looking woman, a former city guard, is exceptionally strong. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a head filled with tales of derring-do. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

582: This plain-looking woman, a former street vendor, is physically weak. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to earn money to marry. Her loyalty is about average.

583: This grubby-looking woman, a former artist, is superstitious. She is obsessed with bathing. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a madhouse. Her loyalty is about average.

584: This well-dressed man, a former rat catcher, always feels too cold. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

585: This plain-looking woman, a former circus performer, has a wooden leg. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. Her loyalty is about average.

586: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, is physically weak. He argues about every order. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

587: This shabby-looking man, a former clergyman, is superstitious. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

588: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is allergic to cats. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from bad memories. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

589: This grubby-looking woman, a former sewer cleaner, is absent-minded. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. Her loyalty is about average.

590: This plain-looking man, a former ragpicker, is very stupid. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

591: This well-dressed man, a former petty criminal, is easily confused. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.

592: This plain-looking man, a former bureaucrat, collects pieces of string. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

593: This well-dressed woman, a former madam, is extremely nearsighted. She tells jokes that never make any sense. She wants to join the adventurers because she is under a geas. She will be fanatically loyal.

594: This plain-looking man, a former blacksmith, is bad at fighting. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

595: This shabby-looking woman, a former executioner, has terrible nightmares. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a madhouse. She will be fanatically loyal.

596: This overdressed man, a former soldier, has a wooden leg. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

597: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is exceptionally strong. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

598: This plain-looking woman, a former poet, is easily discouraged. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

599: This overdressed man, a former footman, is suspicious of everyone. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty is about average.

600: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is physically weak. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

601: This grubby-looking woman, a former gravedigger, always feels too cold. She is thinner than average. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to earn money to marry. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

602: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice scribe, has a bad back. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from a vendetta. He will be fanatically loyal.

603: This shabby-looking woman, a former minstrel, is absent-minded. She whines about everything. She wants to join the adventurers because she is looking for ancient coins for her collection. Her loyalty is about average.

604: This shabby-looking woman, a former writer, collects teeth. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she is greedy. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

605: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice baker, is very smart. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

606: This well-dressed man, a former petty criminal, has a wooden leg. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be fanatically loyal.

607: This plain-looking man, a former actor, has an invisible pet. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

608: This plain-looking woman, a former ragpicker, has asthma. She calls people by the wrong names. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

609: This shabby-looking man, a former juggler, is oblivious to everything around him. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

610: This shabby-looking man, a former writer, is easily confused. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a crazy ex. He will be fanatically loyal.

611: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice armorer, has no sense of direction. She is an insomniac. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to travel far away from here. Her loyalty is about average.

612: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, has an invisible pet. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.

613: This plain-looking woman, a former stonemason, is allergic to dogs. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she is downright crazy. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

614: This well-dressed woman, a former city guard, has a wooden leg. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she is looking for ancient coins for her collection. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

615: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice animal trainer, trusts everyone completely. She is thinner than average. She wants to join the adventurers because she is greedy. Her loyalty is about average.

616: This plain-looking man, a former sewer cleaner, has an invisible pet. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for monster skulls for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

617: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, has no sense of direction. She is constantly in a hurry. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

618: This well-dressed woman, a former carpenter, has asthma. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

619: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is easily discouraged. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

620: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice barber, always talks in a shout. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a head filled with tales of derring-do. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

621: This plain-looking man, a former circus performer, has no sense of direction. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

622: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is blind in one eye. He is thinner than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

623: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, has a high pain threshold. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

624: This plain-looking woman, a former actress, has terrible nightmares. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she is under a geas. She will be fanatically loyal.

625: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, has terrible nightmares. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

626: This plain-looking man, a former writer, has a low pain threshold. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.

627: This well-dressed woman, a former rat catcher, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she has daddy issues. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

628: This plain-looking woman, a former teamster, is extremely nearsighted. She is nervous. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. She will be fanatically loyal.

629: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, will not be parted from some object. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

630: This well-dressed man, a former blacksmith, is a sociopath. He is overconfident. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty is about average.

631: This grubby-looking man, a former executioner, is suspicious of everyone. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.

632: This plain-looking man, a former street sweeper, has a high pain threshold. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

633: This overdressed man, a former soldier, has asthma. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

634: This plain-looking woman, a former lamplighter, is blind in one eye. She is constantly picking at his skin. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. She will be fanatically loyal.

635: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice weaver, is suspicious of everyone. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

636: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, is bad at fighting. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from the law. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

637: This overdressed man, a former farmer, is slightly incompetent at everything. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

638: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is absent-minded. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for rare bugs for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

639: This shabby-looking woman, a former lamplighter, is exceptionally clumsy. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to get rich. Her loyalty is about average.

640: This well-dressed man, a former executioner, is oblivious to everything around him. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for artifacts from an ancient kingdom for his collection. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

641: This shabby-looking woman, a former bureaucrat, is oblivious to everything around her. She is always in the way. She wants to join the adventurers because she is greedy. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

642: This plain-looking man, a former street sweeper, is physically weak. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. He will be fanatically loyal.

643: This shabby-looking man, a former miner, skimps on equipment upkeep. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

644: This plain-looking man, a former baker, is very smart. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

645: This plain-looking man, a former carpenter, is superstitious. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

646: This shabby-looking man, a former city guard, has no sense of direction. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty is about average.

647: This plain-looking man, a former sailor, is a picky eater. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty is about average.

648: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, will not be parted from some object. He is taller than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

649: This well-dressed man, a former juggler, constantly talks about his collection of odd-shaped rocks. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

650: This plain-looking woman, a former gravedigger, is very stupid. She considers herself equal or superior to her employers. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a prison. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

651: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, has an invisible pet. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

652: This plain-looking man, a former actor, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

653: This plain-looking man, a former executioner, is easily discouraged. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

654: This plain-looking woman, a former shepherd, always talks in a shout. She argues about every order. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

655: This plain-looking man, a former shepherd, really, really likes fire. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

656: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, skimps on equipment upkeep. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a moneylender. He will be fanatically loyal.

657: This overdressed woman, a former clergywoman, is foolhardy. She is constantly in a hurry. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. Her loyalty is about average.

658: This plain-looking man, a former messenger, moves slowly. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

659: This plain-looking man, a former miner, is suspicious of everyone. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a false accusation. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

660: This plain-looking man, a former bartender, is a sociopath. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

661: This overdressed man, a former actor, is exceptionally clumsy. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

662: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, can't add, or even count. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

663: This shabby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is bad at fighting. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

664: This plain-looking man, a former sailor, is a coward. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will be fanatically loyal.

665: This well-dressed man, a former bartender, is allergic to onions. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

666: This shabby-looking man, a former juggler, is a coward. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

667: This well-dressed man, a former street sweeper, has a high pain threshold. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

668: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice archivist, is colorblind. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty is about average.

669: This overdressed man, a former porter, constantly talks about his collection of buttons. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

670: This shabby-looking man, a former baker, is exceptionally clumsy. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty is about average.

671: This plain-looking man, a former cook, keeps dropping things. He whines about everything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be fanatically loyal.

672: This plain-looking man, a former beggar, is a sociopath. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

673: This overdressed man, a former baker, is blind in one eye. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

674: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is a picky eater. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

675: This well-dressed man, a former petty criminal, never gives up. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

676: This well-dressed woman, a former writer, always feels too hot. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

677: This plain-looking man, a former bartender, is exceptionally clumsy. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

678: This well-dressed man, a former lamplighter, skimps on equipment upkeep. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

679: This plain-looking man, a former artist, skimps on equipment upkeep. He is skeletally thin. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty is about average.

680: This well-dressed woman, a former scribe, always feels too hot. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

681: This shabby-looking man, a former miner, limps. He is very short. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

682: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, has no sense of direction. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

683: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, is allergic to bee stings. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

684: This plain-looking man, a former poet, keeps dropping things. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty is about average.

685: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, always feels too hot. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

686: This well-dressed man, a former city guard, has a low pain threshold. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty is about average.

687: This plain-looking man, a former poet, skimps on equipment upkeep. He is skeletally thin. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

688: This shabby-looking woman, a former minstrel, has a low pain threshold. She is a lecher. She wants to join the adventurers because she is downright crazy. Her loyalty is about average.

689: This plain-looking man, a former tinker, moves slowly. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a family member's death. He will be fanatically loyal.

690: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, will not be parted from some object. He argues about every order. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. He will be fanatically loyal.

691: This plain-looking man, a former carpenter, is exceptionally clumsy. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.

692: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is keen-sighted. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

693: This plain-looking man, a former cook, is easily discouraged. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

694: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, skimps on equipment upkeep. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. He will be fanatically loyal.

695: This overdressed man, a former apprentice carpenter, is easily confused. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

696: This grubby-looking man, a former miner, has a wooden leg. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a friend's death. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

697: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, has terrible nightmares. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

698: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, always talks in a whisper. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. He will be fanatically loyal.

699: This plain-looking man, a former carpenter, never gives up. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for punishment for a crime he did not commit. His loyalty is about average.

700: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice herbalist, falls asleep on watch. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

701: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, limps. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

702: This plain-looking man, a former tinker, always feels too hot. He is a boor. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

703: This well-dressed man, a former porter, is keen-sighted. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

704: This shabby-looking man, a former actor, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty is about average.

705: This overdressed man, a former laborer, is colorblind. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

706: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is a kleptomaniac. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.

707: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice stonemason, trusts everyone completely. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

708: This well-dressed man, a former blacksmith, is easily discouraged. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

709: This well-dressed woman, a former city guard, always feels too hot. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

710: This well-dressed woman, a former circus performer, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. She is very religious. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a prison. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

711: This plain-looking woman, a former lamplighter, is keen-sighted. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to earn money to marry. Her loyalty is about average.

712: This plain-looking woman, a former farmer, constantly talks about her collection of pieces of string. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. Her loyalty is about average.

713: This well-dressed man, a former street sweeper, has a pet. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be fanatically loyal.

714: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, has a low pain threshold. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty is about average.

715: This shabby-looking woman, a former artist, is keen-sighted. She never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. She wants to join the adventurers because she has daddy issues. Her loyalty is about average.

716: This overdressed man, a former gravedigger, collects buttons. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

717: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, is extremely nearsighted. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

718: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is bad at fighting. He is shorter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

719: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is blind in one eye. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

720: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, has terrible nightmares. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from an arranged marriage. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

721: This well-dressed woman, a former city guard, will not be parted from some object. She is a drunkard. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

722: This grubby-looking man, a former shepherd, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

723: This plain-looking woman, a former ragpicker, skimps on equipment upkeep. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she is under a geas. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

724: This well-dressed man, a former street sweeper, is a coward. He corrects everything other people say (and is usually wrong). He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

725: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, has asthma. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

726: This plain-looking man, a former ragpicker, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

727: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice shoemaker, is accident prone. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a madhouse. Her loyalty is about average.

728: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, has a photographic memory. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from bad memories. His loyalty is about average.

729: This well-dressed woman, a former miner, is exceptionally strong. She tells jokes that never make any sense. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. She will be fanatically loyal.

730: This plain-looking woman, a former actress, has a photographic memory. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. She will be fanatically loyal.

731: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, really, really likes fire. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

732: This shabby-looking man, a former minstrel, has a photographic memory. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from the law. His loyalty is about average.

733: This shabby-looking woman, a former apprentice cheesemaker, is a kleptomaniac. She constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never herself). She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. Her loyalty is about average.

734: This well-dressed man, a former gongfarmer, falls asleep on watch. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

735: This plain-looking woman, a former teamster, is absent-minded. She totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. She wants to join the adventurers because she is fleeing from from the law. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

736: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, is suspicious of everyone. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

737: This plain-looking woman, a former circus performer, is very smart. She is always in the way. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

738: This plain-looking woman, a former juggler, is blind in one eye. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she is greedy. Her loyalty is about average.

739: This shabby-looking man, a former farmer, limps. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

740: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, really, really likes fire. He is a glutton. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

741: This overdressed woman, a former street vendor, trusts everyone completely. She is afraid of non-humans. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

742: This overdressed man, a former actor, has a bad back. He corrects everything other people say. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

743: This well-dressed man, a former lamplighter, is easily confused. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be fanatically loyal.

744: This well-dressed man, a former petty criminal, has terrible nightmares. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a past injury. His loyalty is about average.

745: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is easily discouraged. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty is about average.

746: This plain-looking woman, a former scholar, always talks in a shout. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. Her loyalty is about average.

747: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, can't add, or even count. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for ancient coins for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

748: This well-dressed woman, a former bartender, is extremely nearsighted. She always sits with her back to a wall. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

749: This plain-looking woman, a former minstrel, always talks in a shout. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. Her loyalty is about average.

750: This grubby-looking man, a former ragpicker, trusts everyone completely. He argues about every order.

He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty is about average.

751: This plain-looking man, a former cook, is blind in one eye. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. He will be fanatically loyal.

752: This plain-looking woman, a former gongfarmer, really, really likes fire. She is nervous. She wants to join the adventurers because she is downright crazy. Her loyalty is about average.

753: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, has a high pain threshold. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

754: This overdressed man, a former petty criminal, limps. He is always in the way. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

755: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, has terrible nightmares. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

756: This overdressed woman, a former writer, is extremely nearsighted. She is nervous. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to earn money to marry. Her loyalty is about average.

757: This plain-looking man, a former poet, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

758: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, has no sense of direction. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. Her loyalty is about average.

759: This grubby-looking man, a former city guard, is colorblind. He is a boor. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

760: This plain-looking man, a former executioner, is a sociopath. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

761: This shabby-looking woman, a former sailor, is foolhardy. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

762: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

763: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, has a wooden leg. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

764: This well-dressed man, a former tinker, has a wooden leg. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a moneylender. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

765: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, has an invisible pet. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

766: This plain-looking man, a former juggler, is a kleptomaniac. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

767: This plain-looking man, a former poet, really, really likes fire. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

768: This plain-looking woman, a former beggar, is a sociopath. She is obsessed with bathing. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty is about average.

769: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, has a high pain threshold. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

770: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, falls asleep on watch. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.

771: This well-dressed man, a former minstrel, has terrible nightmares. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a crime committed against him. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

772: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, skimps on equipment upkeep. She whines about everything. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a head filled with tales of derring-do. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

773: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, collects finger bones. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

774: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, is keen-sighted. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

775: This shabby-looking man, a former baker, has a high pain threshold. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for old documents for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

776: This plain-looking man, a former writer, is easily discouraged. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

777: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, constantly talks about his collection of animal teeth. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. His loyalty is about average.

778: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, is very smart. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for ancient coins for his collection. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

779: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, always feels too cold. He corrects everything other people say. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

780: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, is oblivious to everything around him. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty is about average.

781: This shabby-looking woman, a former laborer, can't add, or even count. She is very religious. She wants to join the adventurers because she is on the run from the law. Her loyalty is about average.

782: This plain-looking man, a former clergyman, falls asleep on watch. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

783: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, never gives up. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

784: This shabby-looking man, a former porter, has asthma. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for ancient coins for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

785: This grubby-looking woman, a former actress, takes meticulous care of her equipment. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she owes a debt to a wizard. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

786: This overdressed woman, a former writer, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to earn money to marry. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

787: This grubby-looking man, a former porter, is a picky eater. He argues about every order. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

788: This plain-looking woman, a former juggler, is superstitious. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she needs to prove herself worthy to her god. Her loyalty is about average.

789: This plain-looking man, a former sewer cleaner, really, really likes fire. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty is about average.

790: This shabby-looking man, a former clergyman, always feels too cold. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

791: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is a kleptomaniac. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

792: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, is superstitious. She always sits with her back to a wall. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to travel far away from here. Her loyalty is about average.

793: This plain-looking man, a former porter, is exceptionally clumsy. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

794: This plain-looking man, a former cook, always feels too hot. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

795: This plain-looking woman, a former minstrel, has a pet. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

796: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice weaver, has an invisible pet. He is very tall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

797: This shabby-looking man, a former petty criminal, is colorblind. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

798: This grubby-looking man, a former blacksmith, always feels too hot. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

799: This plain-looking man, a former ragpicker, is easily discouraged. He is overconfident. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

800: This plain-looking woman, a former ragpicker, has an itchy skin condition. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

801: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, falls asleep on watch. He is thinner than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

802: This overdressed woman, a former lamplighter, has a bad back. She always sits with her back to a wall. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

803: This plain-looking man, a former lamplighter, is physically weak. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a moneylender. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

804: This plain-looking man, a former rat catcher, has a bad back. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for monster skulls for his collection. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

805: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is physically weak. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

806: This plain-looking man, a former scholar, is suspicious of everyone. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a vendetta. His loyalty is about average.

807: This shabby-looking man, a former shepherd, is easily discouraged. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

808: This shabby-looking man, a former rat catcher, has no sense of direction. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

809: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is a coward. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a crazy ex. He will be fanatically loyal.

810: This shabby-looking woman, a former petty criminal, has no sense of direction. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

811: This grubby-looking man, a former shepherd, is oblivious to everything around him. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty is about average.

812: This plain-looking man, a former porter, has an itchy skin condition. He is constantly picking at his skin. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

813: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice cobbler, never gives up. He whines about everything. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

814: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, moves slowly. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

815: This well-dressed man, a former beggar, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from an arranged marriage. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

816: This well-dressed man, a former executioner, is bad at fighting. He is a glutton. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be fanatically loyal.

817: This shabby-looking woman, a former prostitute, is slightly incompetent at everything. She is very generous. She wants to join the adventurers because she is downright crazy. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

818: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, is accident prone. She knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. She wants to join the adventurers because she is fleeing from from a crazy ex. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

819: This well-dressed man, a former beggar, will not be parted from some object. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

820: This plain-looking woman, a former circus performer, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty is about average.

821: This well-dressed man, a former baker, has a bad back. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from from a vendetta. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

822: This shabby-looking woman, a former shepherd, constantly talks about her collection of finger bones. She is an insomniac. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty is about average.

823: This plain-looking man, a former lamplighter, is a sociopath. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be fanatically loyal.

824: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, collects animal teeth. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

825: This grubby-looking man, a former miner, is blind in one eye. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

826: This plain-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is foolhardy. He is skeletally thin. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

827: This shabby-looking woman, a former circus performer, is a sociopath. She totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty is about average.

828: This well-dressed man, a former minstrel, is very stupid. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

829: This well-dressed man, a former ragpicker, is a picky eater. He is a drunkard. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

830: This plain-looking man, a former laborer, limps. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

831: This plain-looking woman, a former actress, has no sense of direction. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. She will be fanatically loyal.

832: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, is colorblind. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be fanatically loyal.

833: This plain-looking man, a former footman, never gives up. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty is about average.

834: This plain-looking man, a former sailor, is good at fighting. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a friend's death. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

835: This plain-looking man, a former poet, moves slowly. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

836: This plain-looking man, a former circus performer, is oblivious to everything around him. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

837: This well-dressed man, a former blacksmith, has a bad back. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

838: This plain-looking man, a former lamplighter, is absent-minded. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. He will be fanatically loyal.

839: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice butcher, is exceptionally strong. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

840: This overdressed woman, a former artist, can't add, or even count. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she is under a geas. Her loyalty is about average.

841: This shabby-looking man, a former bartender, always talks in a whisper. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

842: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice woodcutter, keeps dropping things. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

843: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is easily discouraged. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

844: This grubby-looking woman, a former minstrel, is a coward. She knows many local legends. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to travel far away from here. Her loyalty is about average.

845: This grubby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, has no sense of direction. He is thinner than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

846: This shabby-looking man, a former sewer cleaner, is very smart. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

847: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice butcher, limps. He is afraid of non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. He will be fanatically loyal.

848: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice healer, trusts everyone completely. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

849: This plain-looking woman, a former lamplighter, is easily discouraged. She is shorter than average. She wants to join the adventurers because she is on the run from the law. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

850: This plain-looking woman, a former farmer, has asthma. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she has daddy issues. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

851: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, always feels too hot. He considers himself equal or superior to his employers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

852: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be fanatically loyal.

853: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, really, really likes fire. He is a boor. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

854: This shabby-looking man, a former baker, is easily discouraged. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

855: This plain-looking man, a former sewer cleaner, is very stupid. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

856: This grubby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, limps. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty is about average.

857: This well-dressed woman, a former shepherd, can't add, or even count. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she is fleeing from bad memories. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

858: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice cooper, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

859: This plain-looking woman, a former gongfarmer, always feels too hot. She talks in her sleep. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. Her loyalty is about average.

860: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, will not be parted from some object. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

861: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is absent-minded. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

862: This shabby-looking woman, a former messenger, is very stupid. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks vengeance for punishment for a crime she did not commit. She will be fanatically loyal.

863: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is colorblind. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be fanatically loyal.

864: This well-dressed woman, a former carpenter, collects buttons. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she loves the thrill of adventuring. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

865: This shabby-looking man, a former miner, is good at fighting. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. He will be fanatically loyal.

866: This shabby-looking man, a former blacksmith, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

867: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, is superstitious. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

868: This plain-looking woman, a former minstrel, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. She is constantly in a hurry. She wants to join the adventurers because she is looking for butterflies for her collection. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

869: This overdressed woman, a former street sweeper, is easily confused. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she is on the run from the law. Her loyalty is about average.

870: This well-dressed man, a former tinker, is bad at fighting. He corrects everything other people say (and is usually wrong). He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

871: This plain-looking man, a former ragpicker, is slightly incompetent at everything. He is a glutton. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

872: This grubby-looking man, a former ragpicker, keeps dropping things. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

873: This well-dressed man, a former bartender, never gives up. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

874: This plain-looking man, a former porter, is superstitious. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

875: This plain-looking man, a former clergyman, is allergic to pollen. He talks in his sleep. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

876: This shabby-looking man, a former gravedigger, is easily discouraged. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

877: This plain-looking man, a former bureaucrat, is a coward. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. He will be fanatically loyal.

878: This plain-looking man, a former street vendor, collects animal teeth. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

879: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice leatherworker, has a pet. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

880: This plain-looking man, a former clergyman, is bad at fighting. He is taller than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty is about average.

881: This plain-looking woman, a former petty criminal, is allergic to dogs. She tells jokes that never make any sense. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. Her loyalty is about average.

882: This plain-looking woman, a former executioner, is bad at fighting. She is always in the way. She wants to join the adventurers because she is just plain mean and likes killing. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

883: This plain-looking man, a former miner, is a sociopath. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty is about average.

884: This well-dressed man, a former sailor, can't add, or even count. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty is about average.

885: This shabby-looking man, a former juggler, is superstitious. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

886: This well-dressed man, a former farmer, keeps dropping things. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

887: This plain-looking man, a former city guard, is extremely nearsighted. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

888: This shabby-looking man, a former artist, falls asleep on watch. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

889: This well-dressed woman, a former clergywoman, never gives up. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty is about average.

890: This shabby-looking woman, a former prostitute, is easily confused. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. She will betray the party whenever it benefits her.

891: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, is good at fighting. He is constantly picking at his skin. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

892: This shabby-looking man, a former scribe, always feels too hot. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

893: This shabby-looking man, a former artist, is slightly incompetent at everything. He constantly "shares" things that belong to other people (but never himself). He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty is about average.

894: This well-dressed man, a former teamster, is physically weak. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty is about average.

895: This plain-looking woman, a former scribe, is very smart. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. Her loyalty is about average.

896: This plain-looking woman, a former minstrel, is slightly incompetent at everything. She cannot cook, but insists on trying. She wants to join the adventurers because she is looking for ancient coins for her collection. Her loyalty is about average.

897: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice glassblower, has a bad back. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

898: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice tanner, is exceptionally clumsy. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty is about average.

899: This plain-looking man, a former street sweeper, limps. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

900: This well-dressed man, a former baker, is good at fighting. He is a boor. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

901: This plain-looking man, a former stonemason, falls asleep on watch. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. He will be fanatically loyal.

902: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, is a kleptomaniac. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he loves the thrill of adventuring. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

903: This plain-looking woman, a former executioner, is easily discouraged. She is unusually young. She wants to join the adventurers because she is following her family custom. Her loyalty is about average.

904: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, trusts everyone completely. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty is about average.

905: This plain-looking man, a former cook, is very stupid. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

906: This overdressed man, a former clergyman, is superstitious. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

907: This overdressed man, a former city guard, is slightly incompetent at everything. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

908: This shabby-looking man, a former apprentice accountant, limps. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

909: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is colorblind. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty is about average.

910: This plain-looking woman, a former farmer, is easily discouraged. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. Her loyalty is about average.

911: This plain-looking woman, a former carpenter, is superstitious. She is overconfident. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty is about average.

912: This well-dressed man, a former scribe, has an invisible pet. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he the voices in his head told him to. His loyalty is about average.

913: This plain-looking man, a former sewer cleaner, is very stupid. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. He will be fanatically loyal.

914: This shabby-looking woman, a former minstrel, needs only a few hours of sleep a night. She is afraid of non-humans. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a madhouse. Her loyalty is about average.

915: This plain-looking woman, a former ragpicker, has a bad back. She is a good medic. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to travel far away from here. Her loyalty is about average.

916: This grubby-looking woman, a former writer, is a kleptomaniac. She is a glutton. She wants to join the adventurers because she escaped from a madhouse. She will be fanatically loyal.

917: This shabby-looking man, a former footman, is blind in one eye. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

918: This overdressed man, a former petty criminal, skimps on equipment upkeep. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

919: This overdressed woman, a former juggler, is keen-sighted. She never complains about anything. She wants to join the adventurers because she is trying to help a sick relative. Her loyalty is about average.

920: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is suspicious of everyone. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be fanatically loyal.

921: This well-dressed man, a former teamster, is easily discouraged. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for rare bugs for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

922: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, has a low pain threshold. He is very generous. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

923: This shabby-looking man, a former miner, is suspicious of everyone. He dislikes non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a friend's death. His loyalty is about average.

924: This plain-looking man, a former miner, is a coward. He dislikes non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty is about average.

925: This grubby-looking man, a former laborer, is extremely nearsighted. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

926: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice barber, trusts everyone completely. He corrects everything other people say. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

927: This plain-looking man, a former shepherd, is slightly incompetent at everything. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

928: This plain-looking woman, a former farmer, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. She is constantly telling bad jokes. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks vengeance for a past injury. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

929: This plain-looking man, a former blacksmith, never gives up. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a past injury. His loyalty is about average.

930: This plain-looking woman, a former executioner, collects shiny pebbles. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to travel far away from here. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

931: This shabby-looking man, a former ragpicker, is extremely nearsighted. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

932: This grubby-looking man, a former petty criminal, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

933: This plain-looking man, a former ragpicker, trusts everyone completely. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

934: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, is accident prone. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

935: This plain-looking man, a former artist, is a coward. He is always angry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is downright crazy. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

936: This plain-looking man, a former porter, has an invisible pet. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

937: This overdressed man, a former farmer, moves slowly. He tells jokes that never make any sense. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. His loyalty is about average.

938: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, collects buttons. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for butterflies for his collection. His loyalty is about average.

939: This plain-looking woman, a former maid, never gives up. She is obsessed with bathing. She wants to join the adventurers because she feels the need to prove herself. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

940: This well-dressed man, a former gongfarmer, is physically weak. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

941: This well-dressed man, a former petty criminal, is very stupid. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to get rich. His loyalty is about average.

942: This well-dressed man, a former circus performer, keeps dropping things. He is a lecher. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for ancient coins for his collection. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

943: This well-dressed man, a former scribe, takes meticulous care of his equipment. He is a fan of gladiators and adventurers. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to travel far away from here. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

944: This overdressed man, a former sewer cleaner, has asthma. He knows many local legends. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. He will be fanatically loyal.

945: This plain-looking man, a former messenger, has asthma. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a friend's death. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

946: This plain-looking man, a former artist, is oblivious to everything around him. He is afraid of non-humans. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty is about average.

947: This plain-looking man, a former lamplighter, has a high pain threshold. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty is about average.

948: This plain-looking man, a former gravedigger, has an invisible pet. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

949: This shabby-looking man, a former stonemason, has an itchy skin condition. He is a very good cook. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

950: This overdressed man, a former laborer, is slightly incompetent at everything. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. He will be fanatically loyal.

951: This plain-looking man, a former carpenter, limps. He is thinner than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. His loyalty is about average.

952: This grubby-looking man, a former miner, has a low pain threshold. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

953: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is physically weak. He never complains about anything. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a prison. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

954: This plain-looking woman, a former maid, is physically weak. She is a very good cook. She wants to join the adventurers because she is following her family custom. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

955: This plain-looking man, a former poet, is allergic to mushrooms. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a death wish. He will be fanatically loyal.

956: This overdressed man, a former apprentice silversmith, is allergic to dogs. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he owes a debt to a wizard. His loyalty is about average.

957: This plain-looking man, a former circus performer, constantly wanders off looking at the scenery. He is obsessed with bathing. He wants to join the adventurers because he is on the run from the law. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

958: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is exceptionally strong. He is a hedonist. He wants to join the adventurers because he is under a geas. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

959: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, falls asleep on watch. He always sits with his back to a wall. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. His loyalty is about average.

960: This plain-looking man, a former stonemason, is accident prone. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

961: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, has asthma. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he is fleeing from a false accusation. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

962: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice glassblower, is good at fighting. She is always singing and humming off key. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty is about average.

963: This plain-looking woman, a former beggar, always talks in a shout. She is a drunkard. She wants to join the adventurers because she the voices in her head told her to. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

964: This shabby-looking woman, a former city guard, skimps on equipment upkeep. She is a drunkard. She wants to join the adventurers because she has no other options in her old profession. Her loyalty is about average.

965: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, is colorblind. He is constantly picking at his skin. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. His loyalty is about average.

966: This shabby-looking man, a former blacksmith, has a pet. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. His loyalty is about average.

967: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, always talks in a whisper. He is constantly telling bad jokes. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

968: This grubby-looking man, a former shepherd, is very smart. He is a glutton. He wants to join the adventurers because he has no other options in his old profession. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

969: This grubby-looking man, a former sailor, is a coward. He constantly interrupts conversations. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. He will be fanatically loyal.

970: This grubby-looking man, a former petty criminal, is easily discouraged. He is always singing and humming off key. He wants to join the adventurers because he wants to see the world. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

971: This grubby-looking woman, a former laborer, has a bad back. She is afraid of non-humans. She wants to join the adventurers because she is hiding from an assassin. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

972: This shabby-looking man, a former laborer, is superstitious. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

973: This well-dressed man, a former laborer, limps. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a crime committed against him. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

974: This well-dressed man, a former ragpicker, is a picky eater. He never, ever bathes, and it's obvious. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be fanatically loyal.

975: This shabby-looking man, a former carpenter, is a coward. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will be fanatically loyal.

976: This grubby-looking man, a former rat catcher, constantly talks about his collection of odd-shaped rocks. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he has a head filled with tales of derring-do. His loyalty is about average.

977: This plain-looking man, a former teamster, is allergic to nuts. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will betray the party whenever it benefits him.

978: This shabby-looking man, a former soldier, can't add, or even count. He totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

979: This plain-looking man, a former minstrel, is accident prone. He is unusually young. He wants to join the adventurers because he is just plain mean and likes killing. He will be fanatically loyal.

980: This plain-looking man, a former street vendor, has an itchy skin condition. He is very religious. He wants to join the adventurers because he is trying to help a sick relative. He will be fanatically loyal.

981: This plain-looking man, a former apprentice armorer, collects pieces of string. He is constantly picking at his skin. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

982: This grubby-looking man, a former gongfarmer, is keen-sighted. He is fatter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

983: This plain-looking woman, a former messenger, is absent-minded. She gets along well with animals. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks vengeance for punishment for a crime she did not commit. She will be an unusually faithful hireling.

984: This shabby-looking woman, a former teamster, is exceptionally strong. She cannot cook, but insists on trying. She wants to join the adventurers because she wants to see the world. Her loyalty is about average.

985: This well-dressed man, a former soldier, is blind in one eye. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks vengeance for a false accusation. His loyalty is about average.

986: This plain-looking woman, a former apprentice tailor, is foolhardy. She considers herself equal or superior to her employers. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks vengeance for a friend's death. Her loyalty is about average.

987: This shabby-looking woman, a former housekeeper, is oblivious to everything around her. She totally misses jokes unless someone explains them. She wants to join the adventurers because she is looking for rare bugs for her collection. She will be fanatically loyal.

988: This well-dressed man, a former gongfarmer, is a coward. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

989: This well-dressed woman, a former tinker, is colorblind. She is secretly a hedge wizard. She wants to join the adventurers because she has a death wish. Her loyalty to her employers is dubious at best.

990: This plain-looking man, a former ragpicker, is a sociopath. He calls people by the wrong names. He wants to join the adventurers because he is looking for artifacts from an ancient kingdom for his collection. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

991: This plain-looking man, a former soldier, is good at fighting. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he seeks redemption for a past failure. His loyalty is about average.

992: This well-dressed man, a former blacksmith, is accident prone. He is constantly in a hurry. He wants to join the adventurers because he is hiding from an assassin. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

993: This overdressed man, a former farmer, has a wooden leg. He is secretly a hedge wizard. He wants to join the adventurers because he is following his family custom. He will be fanatically loyal.

994: This well-dressed man, a former porter, is a kleptomaniac. He knows many local legends, all untrue or incorrect in some crucial way. He wants to join the adventurers because he feels the need to prove himself. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

995: This shabby-looking man, a former executioner, has a bad back. He is nervous. He wants to join the adventurers because he is doing 'research'. His loyalty to his employers is dubious at best.

996: This plain-looking man, a former petty criminal, constantly talks about his collection of finger bones. He gets along well with animals. He wants to join the adventurers because he is greedy. His loyalty is about average.

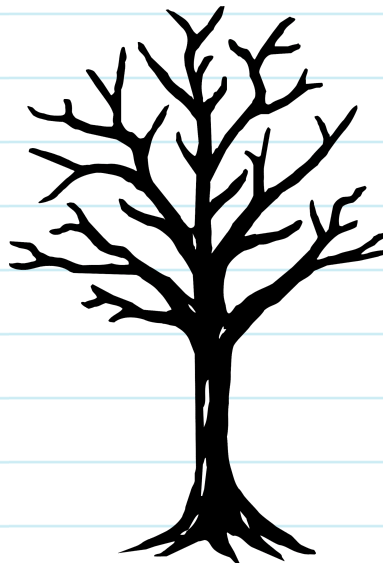

997: This plain-looking man, a former farmer, is accident prone. He is a good medic. He wants to join the adventurers because he escaped from a madhouse. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

998: This shabby-looking man, a former artist, is a kleptomaniac. He is an insomniac. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to earn money to marry. He will be an unusually faithful hireling.

999: This well-dressed woman, a former apprentice tinsmith, has a bad back. She calls people by the wrong names. She wants to join the adventurers because she seeks redemption for a past failure. Her loyalty is about average.

1000: This well-dressed man, a former teacher, is exceptionally strong. He cannot cook, but insists on trying. He wants to join the adventurers because he needs to prove himself worthy to his god. His loyalty is about average.

1001: This well-dressed man, a former minstrel, is keen-sighted. He is fatter than average. He wants to join the adventurers because he has daddy issues. He will be fanatically loyal.

Wintertree Software

www.wintertreeredux.com