DESCRIBING THE TOMES

Each book is classified in several ways. Every book has a gold piece value as well as information on what field of study the book falls under for a sage's purpose. In addition, there are other descriptors used, and the complete list below describes them in more detail.

Author: The name of the author if known. Sometimes the author may be a group of individuals, such as the Monks of Merrin.

Race: If the author is an individual or of a group that contains only one race, the race of the author is listed.

Dimensions: This is given in inches in the following order: width, height, depth.

Weight: The weight of the tome in lbs.

Materials: The materials typically used in the construction of the tome if the work is unique. For non-unique works, the material listed should be considered the most commonly found version of the work.

Rarity: A relative value of the rarity of the tome, ranging from common, uncommon, rare, very rare, and unique. It should be noted that, under normal circumstances, rarity has little to do with value.

Fields of Study: All the fields of study within the scope of the work.

Special Knowledge Categories: Which (if any) special categories in which the work belongs.

Value: The value of the tome to a buyer with interest in such matters. The value here assumes a book in good condition - one that is fully readable and without overt blemishes. Prices should be altered based upon differences in condition from this baseline.

THE NEXT ONE HUNDRED TOMES

200 Mechanical Movements

Author: Dronner Flinheart

Race: Dwarf

Dimensions: 8x8x2

Weight: 6 lbs.

Materials: Leather-bound, stoneboard, parchment

Rarity: Rare

Fields of Study: Physical universe

Special Knowledge Categories: Architecture & engineering

Value: 125 gp

This unusual dwarven tome contains illustrations of 200 different mechanical movements. Within are diagrams and explanations for pulleys, gears, levers, springs, cams, and hydrological valves. This tome rarely leaves dwarven cities, and any non-dwarf possessing it is viewed with suspicion by dwarves.

A Gazetteer of the Abyss

Author: Unknown

Race: Unknown

Dimensions: 8x8x1

Weight: 8 lbs.

Materials: Leather-bound, woodboard, parchment

Rarity: Very rare

Fields of Study: Supernatural & unusual

Special Knowledge Categories: Planes (outer)

Value: 75 gp

The hundreds of different Abyssal layers are catalogued and briefly described within this tome. The information is truthful for the most, but the nature of that shifting plane makes all the information within suspect. Of particular note is the list of planar rulers, which is still only slightly out of date. The final chapter of the work, concerning connections between the various layers, is in a different, cruder, hand. It is an abyssal trap – reading all of the final chapter plane shifts the reader to a random level of the abyss—sans book, of course.

A History of the Auridian People

Author: Kimmart Funlik

Race: Human

Dimensions: 14x12x2.5

Weight: 7 lbs.

Materials: Leather-bound, woodboard, vellum

Fields of Study: Humankind

Special Knowledge Categories: History

Value: 25 gp

The Auridian people fled westward upon the arrival of the great devastation. They and the Bacluni first travelled with each other, but after a generation split directions (peaceably, surprisingly) and ranged farther than their more-insular companions. The Auridian people are olive-skinned and may have blond or dark hair. They have intermingled with all the other western races, and pure-bloods are as rare as pure-blooded Solois.

Fields of Study: Supernatural & unusual
Special Knowledge Categories: Planes (outer)
Value: 175 gp

This illuminated tome expands upon the commonly-understood hierarchy of the Archon, including locations for deva, planatar, and solar. More controversially, Dimmonat places the Paragons in a hierarchy as well, counter to the common belief that all Paragons are considered equal and work together as such. This has led to the work being banned by some religious organizations.

Perhaps the greatest of all experimental biology works, Astral Tapping is a guide to the magical addition of powers related to the outer planes to a subject. Tripangif provides tangible and useful advice on how to link a specific plane to a biological creature, and thereby infuse them with planar power. Unfortunately, only an 8th-level or higher magic-user of 16 or higher Intelligence can use Tripangif's instructions, and they do not result in reliably reproducible outcomes: there is always the element of the unpredictable.

The Cocytus River flows through many different layers of Hell, but somewhere upon every layer the river spreads out and divides, only to divide again. A giant marsh is formed in this process, and within the marsh come screams and lamentations from the uncounted souls of those who died from drowning. These bubbling yells and cries are not empty of meaning, however, for whenever a soul listens to the lamentations, a single prophecy is heard: a prophecy that must surely come true. It is from these conjoined twins that ettins arise, for on the first night (if they survive that long!), they are transformed into young ettins by the light of the moon. Circe's Geometry is an ancient book, yet one still found in most libraries. It lays out geometrical proofs in a logical order making it an easy-to-use book for the beginner. The latter third of the book is, unfortunately, scattered, and modern scholars typically transition to a different text when reaching it.

This pit described dread Malebolge, composed of 9 massive pits, themselves containing pits, which also contain pits, in an endless downward migration until, at the nadir of each pit, one reaches a place for an infernal lord or lady, duke or duchess. One of the strange effects of Malebolge is that gravity is normal surrounding the top level (over which rests a grayly illuminated sky), but once a pit is entered, non-living objects fall upward while living objects downward. This greatly disturbs missile combat of any sort, resulting in a -4 to hit for all non-acclimated combatants. Each month spent in Malebolge reduces the penalty by 1 point.

Manticores

Nispensana is called the Crushing Land as landslides are common. Some slides grow larger than a mile wide, wiping out almost all life in their path. Just walking around is dangerous as one slip may result in a fall of a hundred yards or more down the slope. Migrating upon the slope with ten massive bronze legs bored into the rock itself is Hozolch, the ancient crab-like city of bronze and tin, covered and protected from slides. This tome provides a method of calculation (INT 17 required) allowing the reader to determine (within 5 miles) where Hozolch rests for any particular day.

These two great forests have a history that is little known to any but the elves that reside within. Mythic ages ago, when the elves were but young to the world, a powerful elven queen worked to create a special yellow forest by taking all the yellowish trees from one forest and transplanting them to another. It took centuries, but eventually one forest was strong with yellow tint. That completed, she turned her attention to the darkly green remaining trees, breeding them into almost a sea green color. These two forests were named the Gamboge and the Celadon. This tome tells the full story of those long-lost times.
